Mega KP Unity Fair held

HT Correspondent
Jammu, November 4

CELEBRATING THE Kashmiri Pandit heritage and cultural roots, from which the upcoming exiled generation is getting alienated day-by-day, the mega 'Kashmiri Pandit Unity Fair' was organised in the Purkhoo migrant camp here today.

Various events not only gave an opportunity to the displaced children from different migrant schools across Jammu to show their talent, but it also provided them a platform to meet and interact with each other.

They also listened to the Kashmiri Pandit leadership that included A.N. Vaishnavi, Agnishekhar, Ashwani Chrungoo, Ramesh Hangloo, who apprised them about the various issues being confronted by the Pandit community at the moment.

More than 300 KP children participated in various events ranging from songs, dance items, folk songs, debate contests, painting contest and various sports events.

The fair is being organised by Dhiraj Bakaya (from USA), Vivek Raina (president Young's India) and M.K. Bhat (Head Helpline Humanity).

Talking to HT, Bakaya emphasised that the objective of the event is to promote unity through community building exercises.

There is typically little interaction between the migrant camps. Besides there is insufficient interaction between camp and non-camp KPs in Jammu. This mega event is symbolic of the fact that KPs can unite if timely efforts are made in the right direction," he added.

Later, students were awarded prizes and certificates.

"I am very happy to see so many talented children from my community," said a Class IX student Meenakshi Kiran from Nagrota camp. Another student Pooja Bhat said the event has made them aware of various aspects of the Pandit heritage.
